When to get outta Dodge

Generally, Tuesday through Thursday are the least-busy days at airports. Fly then so you're more likely to end up with an empty seat next to you so you can spread out a bit.

If traveling a long distance, book a separate seat for baby. We know it gets expensive, but holding her on your lap during a longer flight can be exhausting. If she has a seat of her own, bring your car seat on the plane and secure it with the seatbelt. It's the perfect place for naps.

Another tip for longer flights: Schedule your trip for a time when baby usually sleeps, so he can snooze on the plane. See, the red-eye might not be so bad!
